A bachelor, old and cranky.
Was sitting alone in his room;
His toes with gout were aching,
And his face was o'crapread with gloom.

No little ones' shouts disturbed him, From noises the house was free, In fact, from the attic to cellar Was as quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking: The servants answered his ring, Respectfully heard his orders, And supplied him with everything

The Fin de Steele Girl.

"I'd like to know," said an old-fash-ioned girl, "what sort of creature this fin de siecle girl is that everyone talks about so much?"

The fin do siccle girl in her general about so much?"

The fin de siecle girl in her general make-up is quite as varied as a patch-work quilt. She is not the cooing girl of a few years ago. She may have a headache that seems to pull her hair out by the roots, but she'd never speak of it. She is too wise. She has listened to headache recitals herself and knows how wearying they are.

Her independence is something fearful to behold. "I'm not obliged to stay away from the theatre just because some man doesn't happen to invite me to go with him," says this remarkable girl, and she marches off, buys two tickets and triumphantly escerts her mother to the entertainment.

And what the fin de siecle girl doesn't knowing. She is a walking encyclopedia when it comes to discussing new books, spring styles, the opera, or, in fact, anything from the weather to chiffon sales. She even goes so far as to occasionally venture mid little opinions about Coxey's army or the elections, and other girls who are not quite so fin de siecle are so awe struck that they do not make fun of her.

There is a man who says that all this talk about girls progressing so rapidly is nonsonse, that girls are girls always and the girl of a hundred years ago isn't a bit different from the girl of to-day, except in the detail that she is dead. Girls' hearts are all in the same place, he claims. They fall in love, according to this proposterous man, and act as silly as they ever did; they—but then

Men are so projudiced.

Very Nearly Perfect.

A recent enactment in Belgium has made it obligatory for brides to have their "marriage lines" gorgeously bound in gilt-edge morocco. This is considerately done—or, in other words, done for a consideration—by the municipalities, who have now taken to binding up a quantity of more or less useful information with the documents. There is a summary of the Belgian marriage laws, a rough and ready lesson on the treatment of children, and a table with spaces for a catalogue of the issue of the marriage. The table contains room for twelve children to be entered, so we may take it that the number, is the extreme limit tolerated by Belgian burghers in a well-conducted family. The manual seems only to need the addition of a few choice receipts and a hint or two on the best means of obtaining divorces in order to defy criticism. Very Nearly Perfect.

How to Make Plump Checks.

How to Make Plump Cheeks.

Most faces that are thin are apt to be hollow between the upper and lower jaws, and two exercises are recommended for filling out the cheeks. Chack teeth. Close the teeth on them and chow, spreading the teeth only just far enough to keep the rubber in their places and shutting them with all the force possible.

After this put the foreinger in the mouth and rub it against the cheek, pressing it outward in every way, reaching as far back as possible. It is said that by regularly following facial, exercises daily the face may be kept rounded and firm in its outlines, and that even old and relaxed muscles may be greatly strengthened and improved.

Fruit Salad.

At a fashionable luncheon recently the first course consisted of a fruit salad, which was served in baskets made of which was served in baskets made of orange skins, from which the contents had been removed, cut in the shape of baskets with arched handles over the top, and filled with chopped pineapple, thinly sliced bananas, white grapes, cut in two and seeded, the pulp and juice of the orange and Jamaica rum,

Crystal Cloth.

Eulalie's glass gown has led to new departures. Lamp-shados, putled and draped, with falling ruffles, are presented in every color, made from the glittering fabric. A doll pincushion was among the season's expensive novelties, and made entirely from this cloth of crystals. Reclining, the pins pierced the entire length, and when withdrawn left no mark. It is said that glass cloth washes without trouble or class cloth washes without trouble or injury.

Rice Fruit Cake.

Good Housekeeping. One pound of butter, one and one-half pounds of flour, one-half pint of milk, one teaspoonful each of sods and acid, one-quarter pound of powdered sugar, eight eggs, quarter of a pound of whole rice boiled, dried and strained, of whole rice boiled, dried and strained, and currants to suit. The rice must be a quarter of a pound before boiling and must not be boiled until quite soft, say two-thirds, then strained and cold water poured on it, then strained again and allowed to well dry. To mix, rub the butter and sugar well together, add it to the butter and sugar well together, add it to the butter and sugar (give it a stir round, then add 'the flour; three parts mix that in, then add what currants you choose—but not too many—also add the rice and finish mixing, mixing fully, but being careful not to break up the rice more than can be avoided. Bake in flat, shallow tin, same as for pound cake, in a solid heat. If more milk is required to make the batter the same size as pound cake add it. The carbonate of soda should be dissolved in the milk and the cream of tartar sifted in the flour.

Cold Cream.

When you need any more cold cream ask your druggist to propare you some in a little jar, adding zinc and tincture of benzoin to it, and thinning it a little of benzoin to it, and thinning it a little with rose water until quite soft. This juskes a most delightful preparation quite reasonable, six ounces costing only 25 cents, and white preserving all the emollient properties of ordinary cold cream is rendered more beneficial by the healing properties of zinc and the softening and whiteuing ones of benzoin.

Home Physical Culture.

Apropos of home gymnastics, which every one should try to practice occasionally, if not daily, they should be of such nature as to expand the chest, raise the shoulders, draw back the head and give erection to the form. Going up and down stairs and an ordinary amount of walking give the lower limbs abundant exercise. The appliances provided should be of such a nature as to produce the required results with the last peasible expenditure of time, and for this purpose there is nothing equal to pulley weights or chest weights. A bair of light dumbbells, weighing from one to three pounds, and a single one, weighing from six to twolvo pounds, are also desirable for wrist, arm and back exercises. Wooden dumbbells nowadays are preferred to iron ones, because the latter chill the blood. To the chest weights and dumbbells should be added one pair of light Indian clubs. The use of these pieces of apparatus need not disturb anyone else in the house, and from five to fifteen minutes' daily work, although it will not make a Sandow of Apropos of home gymnastics, which five to fifteen minutes' daily work, although it will not make a Sandow of you, may add inches to your chest and strength to your kers.

Thecost—always a point which insists upon consideration—need not be great. In exchange for five or eight good dollars one can get a light chest-weight suitable for ladies' or children's uso. Who was he and what are you laughing at?"

"Oh, oh! it was so funny; I shall die, I knew I shall." and she flew off into a paroxysm of laughter.

"You might as well tell me about it," remarked her friend in an injured tone. "I've got to go to the dentist tomorrow and the sleeves of my gown are not nearly large enough, so I need cheering up."

"Well, you see—ha! ha! ha! The old hired girl has left and the new one can't come until Monday, so I have been busy all day helping mamma. I had just finished tidying the parlors a while ago and gone up stairs when I heard the door bell ring. I was sure it was you, and as I had something to tell you—I've, forgotten what it was, but it was something important—I flew down to open the door. And oh, Elsio, there was Dick Van Snelle!"
